Access Trips, the adventure travel company specializing in exotic learning vacations, today announces the launch of four new combinable mountain biking and surfing tour modules in Costa Rica and Nicaragua. Guests can book a single four- to six-day module, or they can combine biking and surfing modules to create their own itinerary of up to 14 days, allowing them to see more of each country while benefitting from expert instruction and first-class guiding along the way. From the active volcanic mountains of Costa Rica to the sandy beaches of Nicaragua, the new tours are available now for booking with the first trip available in December.
